Wastewater System Update Sept. 6, 2019

As many of you are aware, a leak was identified in our local wastewater system in the 9th street block. The contractor and the engineering firm sent out representatives who, working with our installer found the leak yesterday and repaired it this morning. They then tested the line in the area and found that the leak had been successfully repaired.

Property owners whose pumps had been shut down to accommodate this maintenance issue have since been re-activated on the system and it is now fully operational again.

The contractor and engineering firm will be in Ma-Me-O next week to complete a pressure test on the section of the line in which the leak occurred. A pressure test of the entire system will be completed later, as indicated below.

This leak did not appear during the most recent pressure test of the main system. Therefore, it seems reasonable to assume that this leak was a relatively recent isolated occurrence.

However, we did find a leak and that is cause for all of us to remain vigilant and continue to report any suspicious water accumulation or smells. Thanks to those of you who did so.

This fall the MMO main system will be undergoing further checks to ensure that the heat tracing system is also operating correctly. As indicated above, an additional pressure test of the entire wastewater system will take place once this work has been completed.

These checks will be supervised and monitored by the engineering company to ensure that your best interests are being addressed. It is the engineering company's responsibility to ensure that the system works in accordance with their specified construction and design parameters. We have every reason to believe that they have been acting accordingly. Should system deficiencies be identified, the construction company will make any necessary repairs or changes. We will update you with regard to progress as it occurs.

Thank you for your patience, understanding and continuing support.
